Managing SAP Services to Boost Business Growth

No denying that SAP enterprise systems have become an indispensable part of many organizations today, helping them to function at their best, adapt to changing market environments, and be profitable. However, as the tech giant offers its cloud products and services which are loosely coupled, the organizations often face integration issues that counter data flow, ultimately affecting business performance. Addressing this challenge is Libertas Advisory, an SAP consultant with expertise across SAP portfolio including Business One version for HANA, Analytics Cloud, C/4 HANA, Concur, and others, interlinking each of these offerings through SAP Cloud Platform. The integration of all the databases allows firms to extrapolate insights into their operational data (O-data) and experience data (X-data). Subsequently, these insights are used in the SAP Analytics Cloud to improve the business processes and enhance the customer experience ultimately. To support organizations in their indirect operation, Libertas Advisory leverages the SAP Concur as a consulting tool. The company uses the tool effectively to cut down the time, efforts, and cost in reviewing accounting defaulters and expense reimbursement management, enabling the accounting department of its clients to manage the expenses efficiently.

"When the business data of an enterprise is scattered over multiple systems, various issues arise that can delay the business decisions and ultimately the growth of an organization," states Yoshiaki Shimizu, Director at Libertas Advisory. To contribute to the corporate growth of its clients, Libertas Advisory offers LA SME Digital Management Platform that integrates sales activities, production activities, and back office activities in the cloud. The platform stores all the business process data of the clients in a single system, which is then used by the SAP Analytics Cloud to provide real-time management decisions and protect the project quality, cost, and delivery (QCD). Furthermore, the company offers the Value Management Service that calculates the appropriate values of people, goods, and money necessary to execute a project successfully. A well laid out project management plan allows businesses to supervise their investment and realize a better return on investment (ROI).

As an experienced SAP consultant, we anticipate upcoming developments in the SAP landscape, and once any updates are released, we test them in-house before offering them to our clients to maximize business outcomes

Adding to the value proposition of Kyushu, Japan-based company is its streamlined approach, that includes grasping the situation within the organization and performing necessary education and business arrangement as a leveling before introducing ERP. This helps the clients realize the low-cost and short-term implementation of ERP to standardize and simplify their back-office operations. As a result, clients' business quality is improved by simplifying the settlement of accounts efficiently.

"As an experienced SAP consultant, we anticipate upcoming developments in the SAP landscape, and once any updates are released, we test them in-house before offering them to our clients to maximize business outcomes," remarks Shimizu. Various Small and Medium-size Enterprises (SMEs) situated in Kyushu enjoy the consulting services of the company, which provides them with the necessary impetus to achieve their goal of becoming a global enterprise. The consulting services, coupled with the digital management platform, allow businesses to fill the gap in their operations and use SAP services with ease. Going forward, Libertas Advisory aims to innovate new services and solutions to contribute directly to the business growth of its clients. ACO
